

Take an exciting on-line course in anthropological linguistics!

Xenolinguistics: The Anthropology of Alien Languages

Klingon Empire

Want to learn to write or speak Klingon, Romulan, Elfkin or Wookiee? Ever wondered if those tribble cooing sounds meant anything? Recall the musical communication system in "Close Encounters"? Why don't androids use contractions? How can metaphors be the basis of a language? See how life experiences create language! Explore how languages relate to the overall worldviews of cultures and cultural expression and how language studies can build tolerance and understanding globally!

Study the construction, evolution, distribution and function of languages in relation to all aspects of culture and cultural experiences while also exploring a variety of communication systems and alien languages! Examine the ongoing academic research into possible contact with life outside of our solar system! Learn how it will be possible to understand a culture through the understanding of its language and the origins and basis of that language whether they are light years away or only a few blocks down the street on your own home!
